Good morning Mr. Johnson, how are you feeling today? Good morning doctor, I have been having a lot of headaches lately. They started about two weeks ago and they are becoming quite bothersome. The pain is usually on the side of my head and sometimes feels like a throbbing. I have also noticed some nausea and sensitivity to light. I see. Can you tell me a bit more about the headache? How often are you experiencing them and how severe would you rate the pain on a scale from 1 to 10? I get them about 3 to 4 times a week and the pain can be anywhere from 6 to 8 out of 10. They usually last for a few hours and over the counter pain relievers have not helped much. Have you noticed any specific trigger for these headaches such as certain foods, dress or changes in your routine? Not really, they seem to come on randomly but I have seen. But I have been under a lot of stress at work lately. I also had a cold about a week ago but the headache started after that. Any other symptoms you are experiencing such as changes in vision, dizziness or any other new symptoms? No, nothing else. Just the headache, nausea and light sensitivity. Let me take a look. I will perform a quick physical examination to check your vital signs and look for any other signs that might be relevant. Your vital signs are normal. I don't see any immediate concern from the examination. I will put a button here. This will be the right one. Ok? Yes. Ok? Yes. I will put it here. This will be the right one. Yes.
